Species

Species	Pod	Pollen	Comments	price
Paph druryi			This is a cross between two distinct breeding lines of this species. This should provide vigor. Both parents were excellent quality so we will see some nice results here. Only one available	$195.00
Paph gratixianum			A sibling cross from our strain that originated from the Orchid Zone. These were both awarded as first time bloomers and they flowers have been even better as the plants have matured. Expecting more excellent results here.	$150.00

Paph Paradise July 2024 Flask List

Paph victoria-mariae			The smallest of the sequential blooming species. This is a select sibling cross made with two of our very best parents. These should be very good quality flowers on compact growing plants.	$150.00
Paph fairrieantum		Petite Sirah' Alicante'	I didn't have time to find photos, but 'Petite Sirah' and 'Alicante' are two of our very darkest fairrieantums. These should have very dark stripes and large flowers. This cross will be a real winner!	$150.00
Paph bellatulum		 Inky' Spatburgunder'	This cross brings two disting breeding lines together. This should give us plenty of vigor. 'Spatburgunder' (German for Pinot Noir) comes from German breeding. It is a huge flower. 'Inky' comes from several generations of Florida breeding. It has darker spots. Both plants grow like weeds, which is great since this species can be a bit troublesome for some growers. Highly recommended!	SALE $125
Hybrids

Paph			We got a few more of these! The White Promise came from a cross that produced a good percentage of white flowers. This one was not white, but carries the gene, has good form AND it grows like a weed. Quite rare for this line of breeding. Crossed to the clear white Hawaiian Moonlight we should see a good number of whites from this cross. Not sure what percentage...25%, possibly 50% Only two flasks available.	$350.00
Paph			Breeding for black petals. The Macabre Illusion is a very large flower with deep burgundy. We are hoping that the base color will support the heavy pigment from the pollen parent. Expect many solid blacks, but this breeding will throw some coloratum seedlings as well. Very limited availability!	$250.00
Paph			This cross was made for reds. The Delightfully Venus used had more red than the one pictured, and Santa Ana Sunset is a very red hybrid. We should see a large percentage of flowers with very red petals and pouch. They should also be very fast to flower from flask as there is a large percentage of venustum in this hybrid.	$150.00
